Seniors Head Dean's List

A total of 61 students were placed on the Dean's List of Distinguished Students for the semester ending May 27, 1960.

This figure represents 8.5% of the total enrollment for last year. Of that 61, there were 30 of last June's graduating class.

Scientists Lead

A breakdown of the List shows that the largest percentage come from the B.S. Science majors, who made up 36.1% of the total.

Class of 1960

B.S. So. Sc.: Stack Burton, Hugh Coyle, Pat Cullen, Pierre Gonzalez, Gordon Hasenei, Mike McDonough, John Scaldara, Mike Schmidtman, Henry Weigand.

B.S. Science: Dom Culotta, Gerry Daly, Tom Dwyer, Jacob Nagel, Joe O'Hara, Joe Sanda, Larry Schatz, Jeff Stiffman.

B.S. Business: Paul Ayd, Clarke Bowie, Don Buddenbohn, Vince Coleianne, Henry Reinhardt, Henry Sandaal, Pete Twardowicz.

Class of 1961

A.B.: Stephen Pretl.

B.S.: Social Science: Ralph Magenhofer.

B.S. Science: Kenney Gray, Gary Green, Tony Hughes, John Jordan, Marty Northern, Janne Olson, Mitsy Stasiowski, Harry Stein.

Class of 1962

A.B. Modern Language: Mike Abromaitis, Ed Murphy, Gene Nelka, Larry Ondrejack.

B.S. Social Science: Fredrick Smith.

B.S. Science: Charles Turner.

Class of 1963

A.B.: Tom Kenney, Ed Slawski.

A.B. Modern Language: Bill Jenkins, Hank McGraw.

B.S. Social Science: Gerard Miller.

B.S. Science: Al Brown, Paul Caruso, Bill Define, Al Kacala, Dennis Wortman.

B.S. Business: Charles Blair, Tom Himmel, John Kogler.

The Dean Of Men congratulates the above mentioned men who attained an average of B or better in every subject.

'Importance Of Being Earnest' Set For Tonight And Tomorrow

The air of a professional is evident on the faces of these "Earnest" actors Ed Slawski (L.), Cathy Menius and Ron Yakaitis, caught during rehearsal.

Tonight and tomorrow night, the Mask and Rapier Society will present Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest" in Cohn Hall. The comedy, directed by John Synodinos, is expected to draw near-capacity crowds for the first presentation of the season. Curtain time is at 8:30.

The Society, who has been rehearsing since early August, recently lost the services of its leading lady, Miss Mary McGeehan of Mt. St. Agnes College, who was forced to drop out of the play. She was replaced by Miss Carol Goode, a senior at Notre Dame College.

Debut Tonight

Miss Goode's stint before the Evergreen footlights tonight will mark her debut on the Loyola College stage. Also in debut tonight is Loyola's Ron Yakaitis as Jack Worthing, the brother of the fictitious Ernest.

The veteran thespians in the cast include Martha Monius, Ed Slawski, Carol Seaholm, Catherine Monius, Ed Conery, Dick Benjes, and John Baynes.

Frosh Dance Next Week

The annual "Freshman Welcoming Dance" sponsored by the Sophomore class will be held on Saturday, Oct. 8 in the school gymnasium. Featuring the music of the Dellonaires, the dance will be in swing from 9 til 1.

The Sophomore class officers, working in unison, are chairing the dance with assists being given by Carl Manfre and Jack Kent. Tickets will be sold by members of each class and tables reserved by Jack Kent.

Spot News

Let Me Go, Lover

The Dean of Studies has reminded all students that today, Friday September 30, is the last day for changing courses. The Greyhound reminds all to act now and avoid the January rush.

Get the Lowdown

IN MEMORIAM

The faculty and students of Loyola College express their deepest sympathy to junior James Sydnor on the recent loss of his brother, Lt. Giles Sydnor, Jr., who died on September 21 in an air collision in Texas.

Mass Obligation Begins October 7

First Friday Mass obligation will begin next Friday Oct. 7, in the student chapel. This marks the first time the mass will be compulsory since May 1959.

Trial Run Fails

It was made compulsory after last years trial run failed. The trial run was an agreement between the student council and the Administration that First Friday Mass would be voluntary if it was well attended by the student body.

The entire Administration of the college was disappointed at the failure of the students to attend spiritual exercises voluntarily. In accordance with the above mentioned agreement the Student council passed another resolution making First Friday Mass again compulsory.

Father Bourbon is quite optimistic about the future. "I would like to see the attendance at First Friday Mass put on a voluntary basis," states the Dean of Men, "but if a better urging is needed to assist the student in obtaining spiritual graces, such a method must be used."

Editorials

First Things First

Up to February 1959, attendance at First Friday Mass was compulsory for all Catholic students at Loyola. At this historic juncture the Dean of Studies approved a voluntary attendance system. Objections were raised that the former system of collecting attendance slips was detrimental to the spirit of First Friday devotions and should be abolished by the administration. Under this system, a Catholic student who missed Mass on the first Friday of the month received a cut in Theology.

Since the point of objection was the collection of attendance slips rather than attending Mass, Dean Hoggson approved a three-semester test period which ended last June. The prime condition was that there should be no significant drop in attendance if such a system would become permanent. If a significant decrease (35% of Catholic students) occurred for three consecutive months, the test would be deemed a failure and the former system re-established.

By Spring of 1960, it was evident to all that the temporary system of voluntary attendance had failed. On April 27th, the system was the topic of a heated debate at a meeting of the Student Council, marked by arguments for and against moral obligations, the interjection of theological discussions, and theories on student representation. The debate split the council down the middle, leaving the decision in the hands of Tom Dwyer, the Council President. Acting on the agreement made with Dean Hoggson, Mr. Dwyer passed the motion, re-establishing compulsory attendance.

That the students failed to live up to their part of the agreement is established. But whether or no it is right for the Administration to coerce the Catholic students to attend First Friday Mass under pain of penalty will remain a popular topic of "cafe conversation" for some time to come.

Call Your Battlegroups . . . The Greyhound Salutes

John Connor

When John Connor was selected to command the Loyola ROTC Brigade this year, it came as no surprise to anyone, for John's four years at Loyola College have been marked by active participation and leadership in many school activities.

In describing some of the reasons why John was selected as Cadet Brigade C.O., Capt. Lawrence called him "an excellent student, consistently placing on the Deans list . . . an active participant in many campus activities."

Many Awards

"His abilities are attested to by the numerous awards which he has won on campus," continued Capt. Lawrence. "Chief among these was the AUSA medal, presented annually to the MS III Cadet who has contributed most to the development and efficiency of the ROTC program at Loyola."

At the end of his Junior year, John was elected to Alpha Sigma Nu, the Jesuit honor society, the only business major to achieve this distinction for that year.

Many Activities

Sandwiched between the classes of any student at Loyola are the many activities open to school-spirited individuals. John Connor is one of the latter. This year finds him steering the Management Club, of which he has been a member for two years.

He is also an active member of the PR's, the AUSA, the Scabbard and Blade, the Berchman's Society, and serves as corresponding secretary of the Student Council.

Gum and Greasepaint

If ever a history of Loyola College is written, John Connor will probably go down for his role in the annual Loyola Nite show last year when he imitated the Dean of Studies. "I had a great time chewing five packs of gum!"

Following graduation, "Colonel" Connor plans to go into the Regular Army. In addition, he wants to get his C. P. A., "in order to serve my God and Country as best I can."

As representing the type of spirit Loyola wishes to instill in all its students, the Greyhound proudly salutes John Connor.

the Watchdog

Don't miss the play this weekend. Either tonight or tomorrow night. Tickets are a dollar, stag or drag, so you might as well bring your C.O. Maybe she will tell you what's happening.

What is the difference between a package of cupcakes here and on the "outside" that would change the price from twelve to fifteen cents? Maybe because here you don't have to read the label, since they tear it off. Pete Powley thinks the spaghetti is a little greasy. He decided this after the second plate.

Confidential to John: Nietzsche is pronounced "nee-chee". Nee as in knee, and chee as in cheese. Now, you too can be a philosopher.

Why not take a day off to hold a debate or sort of mock convention before the big choice in November? It would be interesting to see if some of the political heroes on campus could defend those little metal buttons they wear on their lapel. What say you up on the hill?

Why not compulsory first Friday? What's good enough for Queen Elizabeth I is good enough for me. Seriously, fellows, if you had gone when it wasn't compulsory the Watchdog could have enjoyed another year of late first Friday sleeping.

Pete Karczewski's car was broken into this weekend. Six shirts were stolen. Rol Sturm wants to know if anyone on campus can show him a fast way to reduce his neck size from sixteen to fifteen and a half. Why's that Rol?

For the students interested in knowing what happened to Mt. St. Agnes' Mixer last Friday, the Watchdog is at a loss for words. However, our correspondent informs us that originally the mixer was scheduled with both Loyola and a certain minor university also located on Charles Street. Therefore when the committee in charge discovered that our neighbors had not opened yet, confusion resulted.

Where Ignorance Is Bliss

"They couldn't possibly expect us to use all these books this semester."

Campus Question

Question: After being obliged to buy the yearbook, what was your opinion of it?

Bo Bavis '61 English

Except for the fact that the book was not ready until the fall, I have no complaints. In comparison with the '58 and '59 editions, it is a masterpiece. It is wittier and fuller. It lacks the air of a jokebook contained in former editions. I know the boys will improve the '61 yearbook even though the margin for improvement is small.

Charlie Graham '62 Pre-Med.

For the money we paid it could be classed as a high school book. It was too static. There were no action pictures, and in particular they could have covered more dances and senior week. It seems to me that color would also help to break the monotony of the black and white. I also feel that the yearbook neglected the seniors, especially since it is supposed to be their book.

Chuck Pessagno '61 Economics

The 1960 publication of the Loyola College yearbook was another outstanding edition. It was an excellent example of complete coverage. The pictorial coverage was exceptional and the captions were informative and witty. My one big objection concerns the use of advertising. Is it absolutely necessary to defray expenses with the use of ads? It seems to me that a much better looking book could be published without them.

Hound Booters To Face U. of M. Tomorrow At 2:30

The 1960 Soccer team officially opens its season tomorrow here at Evergreen against a strong University of Maryland team. Coach Tommy Lind will field a team well-balanced with freshmen and experienced veterans. Starting on the forward line for the Hounds will be outstanding freshman, Denis Grabowski at center forward, Senior Bucky Effinger at inside left and soph Carl Manfre at outside left. Joe Kosiorek and Dave Crocco are also slated for plenty of action on the line.

Rol Sturm VIEWS Sports

by Rol Sturm

On October 1st the Hound Booters take on a strong Maryland squad at Evergreen. This contest inaugurates the coming school athletic year with many other athletic encounters in soccer, cross country, basketball etc. to follow. Therefore it is at this time that we, the Loyola students who plan to support our teams (as I know we will), should stop for a moment and consider the athletes who make up our teams.

Greatest Effort

It is indisputable that college athletics require the student to sacrifice more of his time and energy than any other extra curricular activity.

Daily practice sessions are necessary to condition and train the team so that they can compete on an equal basis with other Mason-Dixon teams. But after practice the athlete becomes the student who although he is physically fatigued and pressed for time must hit the books so that he can maintain his Q.P.A. There is no coddling nor is there a tutor to assist the Hound athlete. He must maintain the same standards as his fellow students.

What Rewards?

What does the athlete of Loyola get for his sacrifice? Does he become the campus hero who is sought after by all the co-eds? Naturally this is impossible at Loyola for if you see any of the feminine gender parading around campus this year, then the Mole must be importing cheerleaders. In some cases he has a scholarship, but this is the exception rather than the rule.

The reason why the Loyola athlete participates in twofold; his love of the sport and his desire to represent the school.

This year when we are spectating at a Loyola athletic event and one of the Hounds makes a boo-boo let's remember the effort these athletes have made, before we too quickly criticize him.

Leading the Hound defense is captain Wade Bowman at one fullback with soph Rick Campbell at the other. Freshman John Campbell (no relation) is ready for duty behind Bowman and Campbell. Outstanding sophomore Don Wallenhorst is back for his second year in the Loyola nets.

In a scrimmage with Calvert Hall last week, the Hounds downed the Cards by a score of 1-0 on a third period score by outside left Carl Manfre. About six first stringers missed the scrimmage. The Hounds also missed many scoring opportunities. Both of these factors enabled the Cards to get off with so low a score.

When asked about Loyola's chances against Maryland, coach Lind replied, "We're going to win. We don't play to lose." Everyone can expect a high spirited Loyola team to really give the Terrapins a battle on the athletic field tomorrow.

Rugby Game

Last Friday at 4 p.m. the freshmen and sophomores engaged in their annual free-for-all in the form of the Rugby game.

At first it looked as if the sophomores would be terrifically outnumbered. But, to the dismay of the freshmen, a number of juniors and seniors joined the second-year brigade to make the contest a little more human.

The sophs scored twice before the freshmen broke the ice in the form of a long run. Soph Page Fried vacated his safety post and was responsible for the score.

The sophs tallied again to make it 3-1 and it was at this juncture that the jrs. and srs. switched sides and helped the freshmen to the final 2 tallies of the game. After the game, referee Steve Bogusky was carried from the field, but escaped the usual show-er with a show of strength.

Harriers Bob Dilworth, Mike Kenney, Diamond Darrell Russell and Denny Voight get in shape for the first meet.

Wade Bowman—Nomad, Athlete Scholar, Soldier

by Dick Cooke

Wade "Buffalo" Bowman is a name which is quite well known around the Loyola campus. Wade possesses outstanding athletic prowess and a friendly personality to match. He has made a name for himself, and in return, has received much in the way of education and respect from his fellowman, from the college which gave him his chance.

Kenwood Product

Wade, a comparatively modest man, came to Loyola from Kenwood High School, where he excelled in soccer, track, basketball, and baseball. Having established his athletic ability at Kenwood, Wade was offered, a scholarship at Loyola.

With Political Science as his academic major, Wade has done respectfully well in his studies which can be added to the respect he has gained on the athletic field. At Loyola, the "Buffalo" again participated in soccer, track, basketball, and baseball. His experience should prove invaluable to the respective squads this coming year, especially in soccer, where he captains the team.

Happy Wanderer

To add a bit of color to a fascinating personality we must make mention of a twelve day trek undertaken this past summer by the "Buffalo." With California in mind and an empty gasoline can in hand, Wade set out on foot. Twelve days and 6,500 miles later he returned having visited 28 states including such spots as Las Vegas and Grand Canyon. Being only eighteen dollars poorer, the "Buffalo" considered his tour a titanic success. Agreed!

The senior year holds much in store for Loyola's Wade Bowman. A successful year in studies and sports forseen, the future offers much for Wade.

Cross Country Hopes To Rest With Freshmen

By Sam Levin

With the start of the cross-country season only eight days away, one finds the team in a very unusual set of circumstances. The team has been hurt in several ways. They have first been affected by the absence of the non-returning Wayne Leidner and the leaving of Stack Burton. There is also the cloud hanging over the head of the possibly returning Hank McGraw, who is awaiting a doctor's verdict on the matter.

There is, however, a brighter side to the story. The team has two freshman with an outstanding array of talent between them. They are Ricky Frampon and Denny Voight.

Ricky, a graduate of Poly has looked exceptionally good. He was the winner in the Maryland Scholastic Association finals in cross-country as well as finishing second in the 1000 yard invitation-al which was held at the Fifth Regiment Armory. Another achievement of his was finishing second in the M.S.A. mile to his now teammate, Denny Voight.

Other Returnees

Aside from these boys, Lew Smith has also returned from last year's champion team as well as Tom Kenney.

Tom's younger brother, Mike has also looked good and may be an important cog in the wheels of this year's team.

Billy May, Bill Jenkins, and Bucky McCarthy have also joined this year's team in an effort to keep our record of good teams as well as good sportsmanship alive.

Can We Keep On Winning?

The key to the success of this year's team are the first three meets, for in them are met three of our toughest opponents. We meet Catholic U., American U., and Mount Saint Marys. If we get by those three, watch out!
